Rev Announces Partnership with Stockholm Stream

Rev Announces Partnership with Stockholm Stream

Rev is excited to announce our partnership with Stockholm Stream; a fully self-serve content management system that uses their native SaaS platform, Delta, to simplify the delivery of video-on-demand assets en masse to any global VOD platform. With this partnership, Delta now provides Rev's speech-to-text services within its platform.

What does that mean for the fine users of Delta? First, Delta users can now quickly and efficiently add Rev's 99% accurate captions or non-English subtitles to their audio or video files with the click of a few buttons, expanding their content audiences.

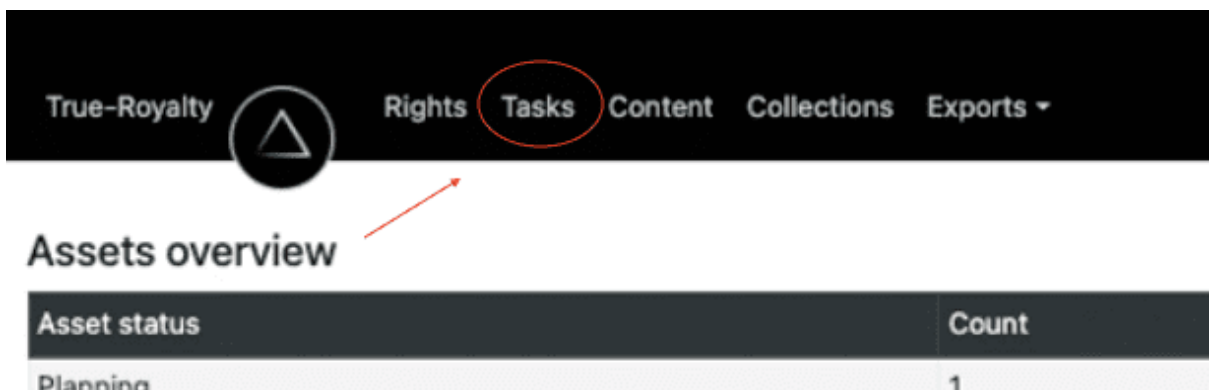

Second, to make this deal even sweeter, users can add “express” to their Rev order, ensuring files are prioritised and come back quickly for those more urgent requests without ever leaving the Delta platform. We know, we know, it’s almost too good to be true.

“We’ve known for years that content is king,” said Chris Barr, Director of Partnerships at Rev. “We’re excited to partner with Stockholm Stream to help media companies deliver their content to as broad an audience as possible through Rev’s accessibility services.”

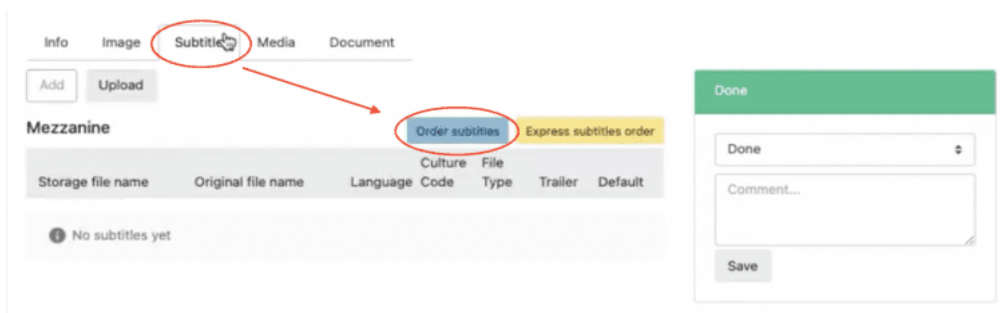

Are you excited to rock and roll with Rev and Delta, but not sure how? Now, read on to learn more.

To add captions or subtitles to video or audio content:

1. Log in at Delta and click on the “Tasks” tab

2. Select the desired files to add subtitles or captions
3. Select “Subtitle” on the right-hand side of the page
4. Click the “Order Subtitles” button

5. From here, select captions or subtitles, and/or express to turnaround files quicker

Learn About the Partners

Stockholm Stream's mission is to build an innovative system that automates user workflows and helps content owners reach broader audiences. The company is based in Stockholm, Sweden with customers in Europe, North America, Africa, and Asia. Stockholm Stream delivers content to Comcast, Amazon Prime, Roku, Vimeo, and more. By partnering with Rev, Stockholm Stream now makes it easy to add captions to audio and video. Learn more at stockholmstream.com.

"By integrating Delta with Rev our users get the high-quality service from Rev's transcriptionists and are also able, even with a small team, to automate the caption and subtitle process to handle high volumes of media files," says Patrik Littmann, CEO of Stockholm Stream.

As a result of the growing accessibility and inclusion efforts in film and media, it has become increasingly important to provide accessible content. With this in mind, Rev has combined the power of industry-leading automatic speech recognition and a network of 72,000+ expert human transcriptionists to help people understand the human voice through accurate captions, transcripts, and subtitles.

With unmatched speed, accuracy, and affordability, Rev enables its more than 750,000+ users to leverage insights and make every word actionable and accessible. Developed using a diverse dataset to ensure accuracy for all dialects and accents, Rev's suite of speech-to-text APIs supports automatic transcription in more than 30 languages. Furthermore, its mobile applications allow users to order a transcript with the click of a button.
